TERRARIUM HACKS

Terrariums are mini gardens made inside different transparent containers with various forms of plants and animals. It is a small ecosystem and takes care of itself. Terrariums are easy to make. People make them in various containers like glass jars, plastic pots, etc. Terrariums are not like aquariums. They are not like a long time before you need to replace or clean them. Terrariums are similar to aquariums but the difference is that the content of terrariums are plants instead of water.

Designing terrariums makes by putting different plants and animals in a container to create a self-sustaining and small ecosystem. Terrariums are made of different types of plants and animals and they are used to create a small ecosystem. They are used to create a small ecosystem and they are used to create a small ecosystem.

Safe Water, Sanitation and Hygiene for Health (IWC 2020)

Clean water, sanitation, and hygiene education are basic necessities for a healthy environment and a productive life. Clean water, basic sanitation, and good hygiene practices are essential for the survival and development of human and humanities. Today, 2.2 billion people lack access to safely managed drinking water services and 4.2 billion people lack safely managed sanitation services. Unsafe hygiene practices are widespread, compounding the effects on people's health. Without these basic needs, the lives of millions of children are at risk. For children under five, sanitation-related diseases are one of the leading causes of death. Every day, over 800 children die from preventable diseases caused by poor water and a lack of sanitation and hygiene. Indeed, access to safe water and sanitation are human rights, as recognized in 2010 by the United Nations General Assembly.

UNICEF's water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH) team works in over 100 countries worldwide to improve water and sanitation services, as well as basic hygiene practices. The impact of universal access to WASH on international health would be profound. There is the potential to save the lives of the 829,000 people who currently die every year from diseases directly caused by unsafe water, inadequate sanitation and poor hygiene practices.

Thus safely managed water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) services are an essential part of preventing and protecting human health during infectious disease outbreaks, including the current COVID-19 pandemic. Good WASH and waste management practices, that are consistently applied, serve as barriers to human-to-human transmission of the COVID-19 virus in homes, communities, health care facilities, schools, and other public spaces.

1. Role of clean water, sanitation and hygiene in achieving good health.
2. WASH and infectious diseases.
3. WASH and waste management.
4. WASH and Covid-19
5. WASH and Education
6. WASH, Environment and Biodiversity
7. WASH and Socio-economic development
